

BARNEY GLAZER'S HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Calif. — Star of "Bye Bye Birdie" at the Las Vegas Riviera Hotel is Elaine Dunn, one of the most talented dancers, singers and actresses I've witnessed in years. Cleveland born, Elaine attended Glenview High School. Her parents are Sam and Goldie Dombick. He's a commercial artist.

When she sings "I'm not Swedish, not British, not Yiddish but Spanish," Elaine isn't telling the truth. She's Yiddish. She is married to Dean Shendal, a Las Vegas hotel executive, and has a son, Adam, 7, from a previous marriage.

"How'd I get into showbusiness?" the 5'3" attractive sensation mused. "My uncle, Bennie Ray, was with Olsen and Johnson for years. He got me interested and I did what apparently came naturally."

In the same delightful Riviera musical, which is creating a furore in Gambolton, Barry Pearl, 12, was asked if he intends to make acting a career. Replied the lad: "I'll give it a few years. If I don't make it, I think I'll become a brain surgeon."

Shades of Ben Casey's influence!

AT THE Flamingo Hotel, Las Vegas, famed vocalist Gogi Grant (Mrs. Bob Rifkind) discusses her daughter, Jeri, 19, who attends the University of Oregon. It seems that young Jeri is weary of the modern girl's makeup and ideas. She sneers it down as "pseudo sophistication."

Jeri's ambition is to go to Israel and live on a kibbutz and her mother is highly pleased. Jeri's best friend, Nancy, a U.C.L.A. student, also wants to go to Israel and work on a kibbutz, which is quite commendable, thinks Gogi, because she's a Christian.

However, Nancy can't afford the trip, but a certain source, which I am honor bound not to divulge, has promised to come up with the expense money.

Backstage at the Flamingo, Gogi also told me how Michael Blankfort, the famous screen writer and novelist, had sent one of his daughters to a kibbutz. The young lady remained for a year, returned to this country, and then persuaded her fiancée to go back with her.

They were married in Israel, and are still living there.

AT the Desert Inn, Las Vegas, Jack Benny remarked about Sammy Davis, Jr.: "He has so much talent, if he weren't of the same faith, I'd hate him."

JEWRY is very proud of the rising success of young Soupy Sales (that's a man's name) who performed quite capably as a recent fill-in on NBC-TV's "Tonight" show. What we like best about Soupy: when he throws his famous pies into the faces of suspecting celebrities, he does it the orthodox way — never mixes meat pies with cream pies.

PAUL Winchell, the ventriloquist, maintains a home in Whitestone, N.Y., but his pretty wife Nina and their three children usually accompany Paul in his show travels across the country.

Do they fly? No. They drive, using a U-haul trailer to cart their belongings. A tutor also goes along to keep the kids up with their schooling.

From wrong to right, the young students are April, 2, (she hasn't learned much except she gets what she wants when she cries); Vicki, 8; and Janet, 12. There is also Jerry, but he can't seem to learn a thing. He's a real dummy.

My Heartfelt Thanks —

To the hundreds who worked on my behalf and the thousands who voted for me.

I can only repeat the promise that I made during the campaign — that I will do all in my power to represent you in Ottawa and to work for the principles in which we believe; full employment, better old age pensions and an overall medical care plan.
