To Present Harry Silverberg
First Service Award Outside U.S.A.

Dr. Louis Finkelstein, chancellor of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, has announced that the Seminary's National Award for Community Service will be presented to Harry Silverberg on December 2 at the Rosh Pina Synagogue, on the occasion of its 10th anniversary celebration. The award will be presented for "dedication to the high principles of Judaism, for selfless support of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, and for exemplary leadership in his endeavors to enrich the Jewish life of his community."

This will be the first time that the Seminary will present the award in an area outside the boundaries of the United States.

Mr. Silverberg, who is chairman of the Rosh Pina anniversary celebration, has long been active in philanthropic and community service, was one of the founders and early presidents of Rosh Pina Synagogue and was instrumental in nurturing its growth. He has been active in the United Jewish Appeal and was the first chairman for Israel Bonds in Winnipeg. He directs the practical affairs of the Hillel Foundation of the University of Manitoba as chairman, and has contributed both time and resources to the Jewish educational system in Winnipeg. Mr. Silverberg is a life Governor of the YMHA, the Old Folks Home, is a member of the Board of Hebrew University and the National Conference of Chris-

World News in Brief
Buenos Aires

Members of the neo-Nazi youth organization Tacuara last week went on the rampage in several districts of Buenos Aires, attacking Jewish shops, breaking windows and causing general disorder. The police made 24 arrests, most of them teen-agers. Other Tacuara members, charging out from the city's Lasalle High School, attacked a near-by Jewish school, smashing several windows. But the attackers were themselves attacked and badly beaten. Several of them were handed over to police.

Chicago

Rabbi Ephraim Prombaum of Chicago has noted that the disappearance of the matchmaker in Jewish life has not been solved by "less competent" substitutes and has suggested that young men and women pick their mates with the aid of an IBM computer. The idea, he asserted, would be of great benefit for the safety and progress of Jewish marriage and the family.

For the first time in the 62 years that the Jewish Federation of Metropolitan Chicago has been holding annual meetings, it will have a kosher dinner at the next one. The Chicago Sentinel, in reporting the innovation, said executive vice-president Samuel Goldsmith indicated that the arrangements had not been completed.

Haifa

The first ship to be built in Israel since the days of King Solomon has entered its first stage of construction at the Haifa shipyard. The vessel, a 2,000-ton cargo-ship designed in Holland, will be launched late next year and will be put into commission in 1964.

Tel Aviv

Israel's "days of pioneering" have not yet ended, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion asserted here this week at ceremonies dedicating Israel's latest "economic break-through," the official commencement of the building of the new town of Arad. Standing on a bare hilltop in the Judean desert northeast of Beersheba, with his back to the Dead Sea, the Prime Minister spoke of the new town expected to house 40,000 people. There are 50 families in Arad. But within the next year, said Yosef Almog, Minister of Development, 1,200 workers will live there in new housing. Located near the Zohar gas fields, Arad will be the first Israeli settlement to use gas for street lighting, cooling and heating.

Washington

Retired Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter has asked Israeli Education Minister Abba Eban to arrange for the bequest of the Justice's library to the Hebrew University. The Frankfurter law library is one of the largest private libraries on law and politics in the world.

SOVIET UNION SENTENCES MORE JEWS TO DEATH

London (JTA) — Two Soviet Jews were sentenced to death, two others were given heavy prison sentences, and a number of other Russian Jews were sentenced to shorter jail terms, all charged with so-called "economic crimes," according to information received here from the USSR.

The Lvovskaya Pravda, a local organ of the Communist Party in Lvov, in the Ukraine, received here, reported that the death sentences for alleged "embezzlement and bribery" were meted out to C. M. Kitaygorodsky and S. G. Skelkin. L. P. Weizmann was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment in the same mass trial, at Lvov, while R. M. Furman, the fourth Jew named, was given an 11-year prison term. The Communist newspaper described all of the defendants as "wolves."

The Guardian of Manchester reported at the same time about a long and rare article dealing with the situation of Russian Jewry that has appeared in the Moscow News, an English-language propaganda periodical published in the Soviet capital. Evidently reacting to foreign criticisms against the Soviet Union's policy of repressions against Jews, the article was presumably a "reply" to an inquiry from a person called Joseph Hoffman of the United States.

The article stressed that some of the USSR's leading scientists are Jews, including among these the recent recipient of the Nobel Prize in physics, Dr. Lev Davidovitch Landau. It also noted that Veniamin E. Dymshits, just chosen head of the USSR's new and powerful Economic Council, is a Jew. A Deputy Premier of the USSR, Mr. Dymshits article was identified as Avrom Gontar, a member of the editorial board of Sovietsk Heimland, a bi-annual publication in the United States and Canada.

Auld Sod 'N' Israel

New York (JCNS) — A Loyal League of Yiddish Sons of Erin was formed here this week "out of sheer nostalgia for the Auld Sod." It will be known as LLOY-SOE, which sounds more Welsh than Irish.

The charter meeting was held at the Moskowitz and Lupowitz Restaurant on the Lower East Side of New York to the accompaniment of Hungarian (or was it Rumanian?) gypsy fiddles following a "kosher-style" meal.

One of the first decisions taken was to charter a plane for a trip back to Eire, which would also take the members to Israel for a week's visit. Also debated was proposition to ask the St. Patrick's Day Parade Committee to grant LLOYSOE permission to march in the grand parade up Fifth Avenue on March 17 next year. This was solemnly agreed. Then an insignia was adopted — a harp superimposed on a Star of David.

One of the initiators, Larry Lewis, explaining why the group had been organized, said that he once played soccer for the Talmud Torah School in County Armagh in Ireland.

DR. LEV D. LANDAU

... proof pudding? monthly published in Moscow in Yiddish. The article stated that 427,000 of the USSR's 2,268,000 Jews have "higher or secondary specialized education" and "are employed in various fields." The article claimed that nearly 10 per cent of Soviet writers and journalists are

Jews, while "more than 10 per cent of the lawyers are Jews."

According to the Moscow News article, more than 7,500 Jews are deputies in local governmental bodies, while some are deputies in the national legislatures of the Ukraine, Byelorussia, Lithuania and other Soviet Republics, reaching even into the USSR's Supreme Soviet.

The article declared that more than 470,000 Soviet Jews consider Yiddish their native tongue, stating that Sovietsk Heimland is published "especially for those who speak Yiddish." The periodical is issued in 25,000 copies, the report stated.

The Guardian, commenting on the Moscow News article, cited the convictions and severe punishment, including death sentences, for economic crimes during the year in Russia, which included a high proportion of Jews. The Guardian also noted consistent reports of closure of synagogues, prohibition of matzo' baking for last Passover and the recent incident in which a large ring of alleged swindlers, apparently almost all of them Jews, had gone on trial in Moldavia.

No Action on Aid and Instruction

Washington (JTA) — The 64th biennial national convention of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America declined to take a definitive position on the question of federal aid to religious schools with the adoption of a resolution citing the "variety of views" which made it "difficult" to reach a consensus at the convention. The Union comprises 3,100 Orthodox congregations in the United States and Canada.

The convention also adopted a resolution which advocated adoption of a moment of "silence" for devotion at the beginning of sessions every day in public schools. In this period of silence children would think in terms of their individual faiths and pray in silent devotion.

In urging adoption of the resolution pertaining to federal aid, Moses I. Feuerstein, who was re-elected president of the organization, said it was the "essence of honesty" to admit that there was considerable divergence of opinion. His support of the resolution was followed by an appeal from the convention chairman, Joseph Karasick, for further discussion of the issue at local and regional levels during a "cooling off" period.

Another resolution called on the Soviet Union to implement their "often repeated" declarations on the rights and equality of Soviet citizens. It deplored the fact that Soviet Jews "have been singled out for harassment and strictures going far beyond those applied to other religions."

In other resolutions, the delegates hailed the United States decision to sell Hawk missiles to Israel and called on the President to "intensify the efforts of our Government to bring about the complete cessation of all nuclear arms tests and subsequent general disarmament."

which reflect anti-semitic attitudes "while ostensibly lobbying for humane slaughter laws on the grounds of humane treatment of animals." Other resolutions called upon Jewish federations and welfare funds to support local Hebrew day schools and Talmud Torahs "in a manner permitting these institutions to maintain their full and untrammelled spiritual independence."

FEUERSTEIN REELECTED

MOSES I. FEUERSTEIN of Brookline, Mass., was re-elected this week as president of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, the national organization serving 3,100 synagogues throughout the United States and Canada. The election and installation were held at the UOJCA Anniversary National Biennial Convention in Washington, D.C.
