

REGINA

SASKATOON

He gazed with mute hero-worship at the beauties of the Holy City. There are all classes, nationalities and religions, students, hippies, members of Evangelical sects, tough guys from the Jewish Defence League. The world has not grasped how important Jerusalem has become as a meeting-place for youth from many nations.

But there are also some disappointed youth. . . . Those who go to Kibbutzim and cannot fit in and get picked on as outsiders. Boys and girls with psychological disturbances who only find a tired welcome in the kibbutzim. Young people from wealthy spilt backgrounds who do not really want their freedom.

dom. Message Israel may be demoralized and misunderstood by most of the world and torn by internal troubles. But when young people from all over the world flock to her beleaguered borders, she can hold up her head. The young people seeking identity find a message in Israel. Maybe the UN and the nations who uphold it should absorb the fact that not all the younger generation are on the side of Arafat.
