many influential people who felt that this action would reflect unfavorably upon the treatment of Jews in Germany, J.W.V. persisted in making more and more effective the boycott with the result that many other organizations joined in the fight thus reducing the importation of goods from Germany to a mere trickle.

Whenever cases of anti-Semitism have been brought to the attention of J.W.V., prompt action has been taken with amazing success. This phase of work has been especially fruitful in helping to implement the activities of the President's Fair Employment Practices committee, designed to eliminate racial and religious discrimination in war industries. There is no doubt that the elimination of religious classifications on applications in many of the largest war industries comes as a direct result of the work of the Anti-Discrimination committee which, in the past year, has been headed by Is Ginsberg. So active has J.W.V. been in these fields of counter-propaganda exposure of rumors and pro-Americanism, that all the major Jewish organizations have co-operated wholeheartedly in these efforts.

In the past year, under the leadership of National Commander Benjamin Kaufman, one of America's outstanding heroes, having been decorated with the Congressional Medal of Honor as well as medals for heroism by 13 other Allied governments in the last war, J.W.V. has embarked upon a program which calls for the presentation of six Alamoza Pursuit planes to the United States Army Air Forces; the purchase or sale of $25,000,000 in war bonds; collection of scrap and 100% co-operation by the membership with the various civilian defence agencies throughout the country. Mr. Kaufman, recently re-elected after an amendment to the constitution was passed permitting the National Commander of the Jewish War Veterans to succeed himself, has been a great and effective instrument in cementing relations between J.W.V. and all other organizations in the United States, both non-sectarian and Jewish. In a recent article in Collier's magazine, the action of J.W.V. in presenting planes to the United States government was characterized as the greatest single effort in the direction of war aid by any organization to date. Two of the planes having already been given to the armed forces.

The word of J.W.V. in inter-faith movements becomes highly significant when it is realized that 95% of the membership belongs also to other veterans' organizations such as the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, Army and Navy union, and so forth. Primarily concerned with perpetuating for all time the record of Jewish veteran achievement, the J.W.V. has been able to establish close contact with such other veteran organizations of limited membership as the Catholic War Veterans, Irish War Veterans, and so forth.

In order to best serve the purposes outlined in the Preamble to the Constitution, this organization has never taken a political stand, nor has any politician ever received endorsements of his candidacy by the organization or any of its posts, which now numbers 250 and are spread throughout all the United States.

Before the aggression launched by Hitler closed Europe to international visits, the Jewish War Veterans of the United States regularly met with representatives of Jewish Veteran organizations in European countries. The last meeting of this sort was in Vienna in 1936.

For the duration of the war, of course, such meetings cannot be held but this tradition of co-operation with Jewish Veterans of all other nations of the world, will bear fruit again after the war when it again becomes possible for the members of the Jew War Veterans of the United States to put into effect the fall forces of the thoughts expressed in the Preamble of the Constitution.

"To maintain true allegiance to the United States of America; to foster and perpetuate true Americanism; to combat whatever tends to impair the efficiency and permanency of our free institutions; to uphold the fair name of the Jew, and fight his battles wherever unjustly assailed; to encourage the doctrine of universal liberty; equal rights and full justice to all men; to combat the powers of bigotry and darkness wherever originating and whatever their target; to preserve the spirit of comradeship by mutual helpfulness to comrades and their families; to instill love of Country and Plag and to promote sound minds and bodies in our members and our youth; to preserve the memories and records of patriotic services performed by the men of our faith; to honor their memory, and shield from neglect the graves of our heroic dead."

WHEN I WAKE

When I wake and when I sleep, When I laugh and when I weep, Something flashes unexpected, Bright as sun in rain-reflects— Soft as blades of young, green grass, When the spring rains come and pass, Then the meaning thus I render: "Lord of love and might and splendour,

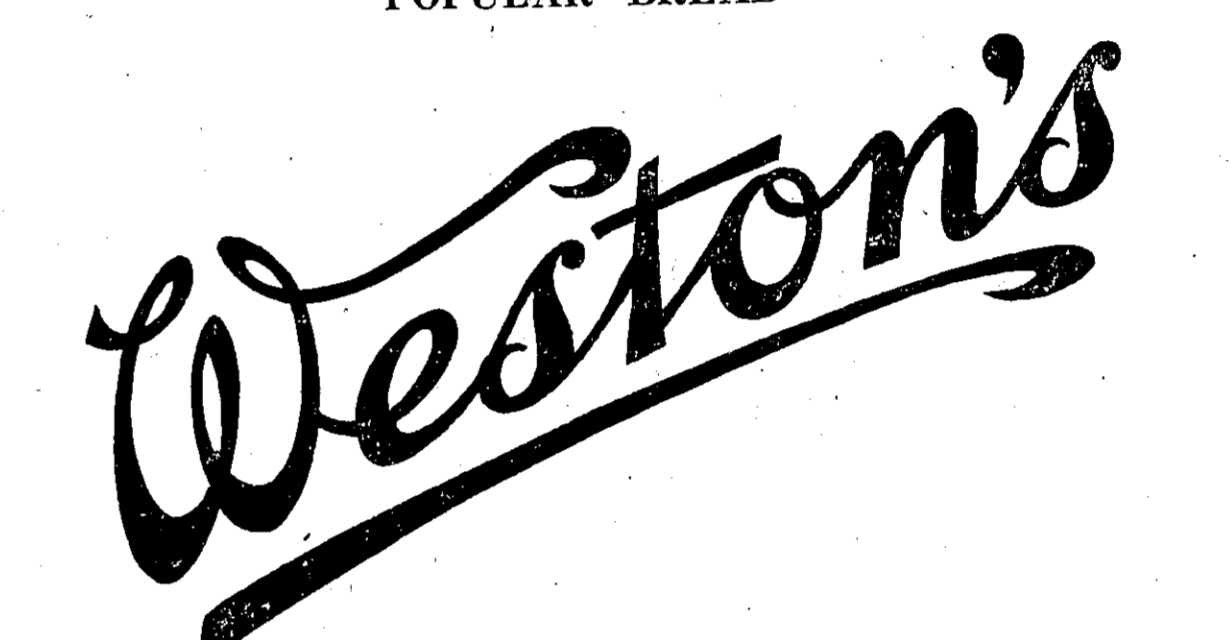

THE WANDERER

See that wanderer with the bag, Hastening onward without lag, Trudges weary on his way, And his face is ashen-gray. "Is there at your journey's end Wife, or child, or loving friend?"

Staring at me in despair: "I'm a stranger everywhere," "Neither peace nor rest you know, Yet you have no place to go." Then he answered sick and wan: "Ever must I thus go on." "Weary wanderer walking late, Holds your bag a precious weight!" Then I heard him sob and groan; And he showed me - 'twas a stone.
